A plan shaped around your trip.

PERSONALIZED CHINA READY · ILLUSTRATIVE REPORT

This is a fictional two-page example of report structure and preparation tasks. It is not a customer case, an actual device test, or the complete output promised for a future order.

Traveler	Alex — fictional traveler
Starting point	United Kingdom
Device	iPhone 15; exact model, region and carrier lock still to be checked
Payment context	UK-issued Visa; no card number collected or tested
Trip	Shanghai and Beijing · 10–20 March 2027 (fictional)

1 / Prepare your phone

Confirm the exact handset model, purchase region, carrier-lock status and compatibility with your intended connection plan. Ask your manufacturer and provider about the current requirements before buying a plan. Keep access to the number used for verification messages.

To verify: connection option, installation timing, roaming settings and a fallback. None has been tested for this fictional traveler.

2 / Prepare payments without sharing credentials

Install genuine payment apps from official stores. Read their current international-card guidance and ask the card issuer about overseas controls and fees. Prepare another accepted payment method. Complete identity checks directly with the provider.

Keep private: card number, security code, password, passport details and one-time codes. China Ready does not need or operate them.

3 / Keep the first route usable offline

Save the accommodation name, Chinese address and contact route. Confirm the arrival airport and terminal from the booking, then check official transfer information for the actual arrival time. Save the route and a fallback before departure.

Your first day, with fewer loose ends.

SAMPLE CHECKLIST · USE CURRENT OFFICIAL INFORMATION

Arrival priorities

Connect: check which line supplies data and whether the verification number remains reachable. If setup fails, use the responsible provider's official support rather than sharing account access.

Find the right pickup: compare the terminal, meeting point and destination address. A station name or hotel name alone may not identify the correct entrance.

Check a payment: read the actual amount and result at an ordinary merchant. A linked card is not proof that every transaction or wallet feature is available. Keep your backup.

Before moving between cities

Confirm the exact departure and arrival stations on the booking, not just "Shanghai" and "Beijing". Check the current official rail instructions for the traveler's document and allow time for station access and security. You make and manage the booking yourself.

Questions this report could help you frame

"Which preparation checks depend on my exact phone?"
"What should I save before leaving the airport?"
"How do I check that I selected the correct railway station?"

What is included — and what remains yours

Personalized preparation includes a report based on the supplied information and up to 3 text questions within 7 days. Initial delivery is within 48 hours after complete intake. The support start rule and follow-up counting are still awaiting final policy approval.

You retain control of accounts, identity checks, bookings and money. The service does not guarantee card or app acceptance and does not provide bookings, account recovery or 24/7 assistance.

An actual report would identify the sources checked, unresolved items and its review date. This sample adds no new verified travel claims and creates no paid order.
